panorama

hhs means something to you and something to me.
if the memories and impressions
of high school
change as we change,
in a year or two or twenty,
we may want to look back
and see the days
in the light
in which they were lived.
for those who want to take with them
more than marks
and memorized theories,
we present
panorama—
the year in review.

remember
those first days
at hhs?
everything big,
new,
unexplainable . . .
red bricks
and
green linoleum.

if the gym
is somewhere near
the cafeteria,
where is
the science wing?
. . . a mad mass
of books
and numbers
and schedules
and teachers.

for a while
you hated it;
you wondered
what sense
it made.

but time passed . . .
the impersonal
became bearable.
you could find your way around.

you dared to look
at the sea of faces
in the cafeteria.
you yelled
with the crowd
at the games
you could enjoy
this new life.

bang!
you were
a junior
an important
guy.

of course
you couldn't be
too friendly
—had to show
those sophomores
who's boss.

you knew
you were never
that hopeless.

a busy year . . .

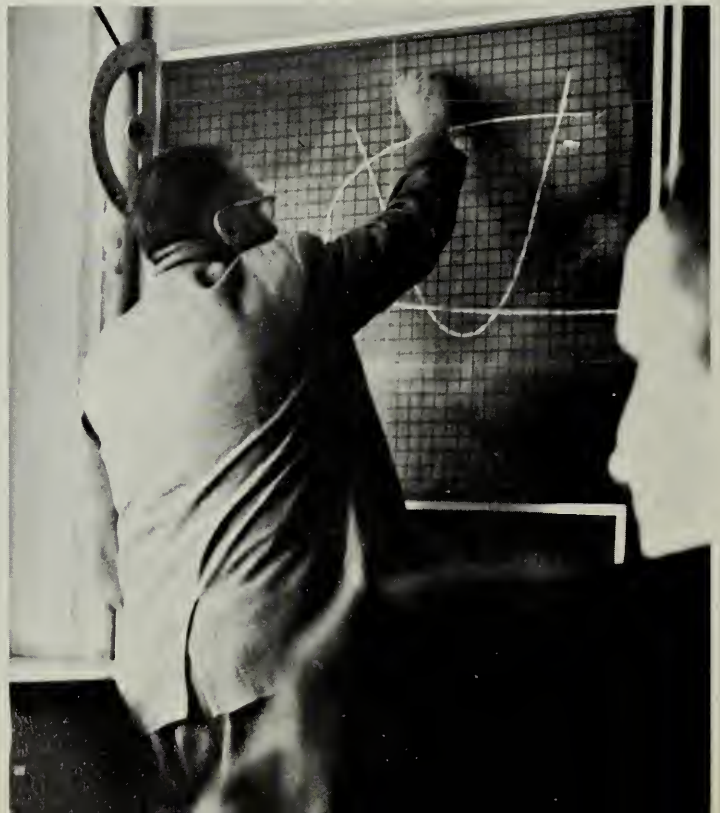

hey—
going
to the game?

. . . coach
showed me
a new play
today.

what did
you think
of that english
last night?
. . . do you
understand
what he's talking
about?

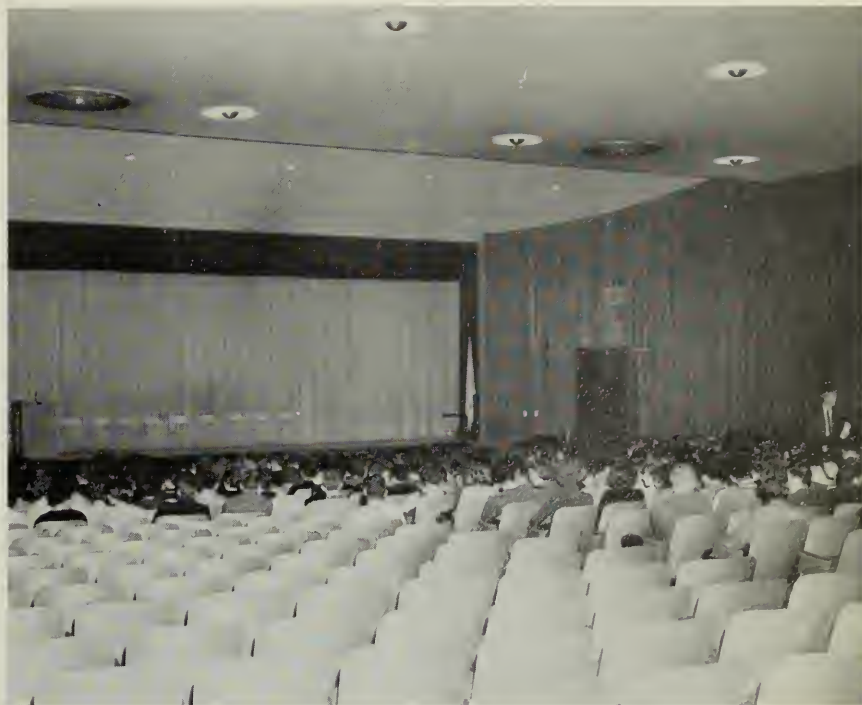

big ideas . . .
lots of work . . .
little time . . .
only once

and then
the seniors
were gone—
lucky guys.
you missed
a lot
of faces
in the halls.
what are they
—nuts?
coming back
all the time . . .
will this
ever
be over?

but we're
the bigshots
now—
right
up front
in the auditorium.
things
look
kind of different.

september
again—
back to the
quizzes,
lectures,
lab reports.
. . . and I
thought
I studied
a lot
last year.

but still
time for saturdays
and red and white
streamers;
time for
cokes
and
doing nothing;
time for
a last
fling.

but days are getting shorter
. . . application
deadlines,
interviews . . .

college boards
this weekend—
two sharp pencils and
a ticket;
nine o'clock—BEGIN
. . . should I have studied?
too late now
keep cool . . . complement of 12 degrees
. . . lines parallel
. . . come back to it later
guy in front
turned the page;
maybe
he's having trouble
too—
never mind
got to keep moving
. . . not "a"
maybe "c"
. . . that's not right
no . . . darn it
what a mess.

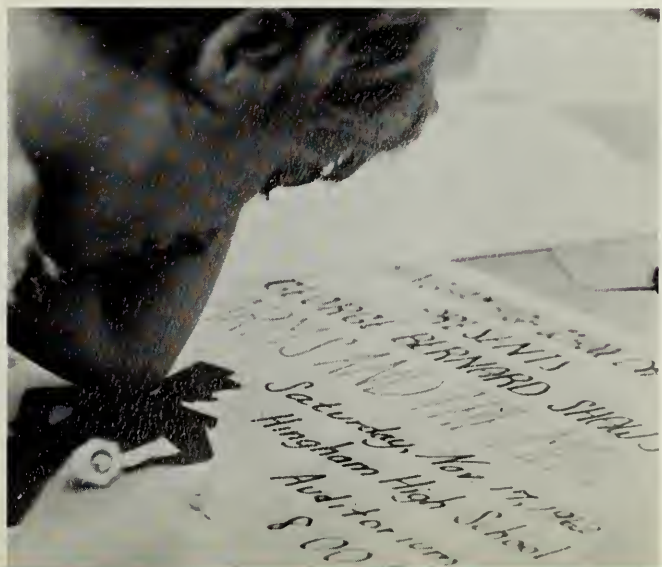

midyears
are over,
and
suddenly
the days
are longer.

plans for the
drama festival . . .
plans for the

rehearsals,
until . . .

school

explodes
in the state tournament.

march thaws
into spring;
boys shed their
jackets
and sweaters;
girls have on
madras
and prints—
another step toward
summer.

full envelopes
arrive.
hey—
I got accepted
. . . the job
I wanted
for next year
came through.

we can
sit back now
and play at being
philosophers.
we've seen
a little more
of life—
what ever that is—
and something
of death.
we look at those
around us—
the leaders,
followers,
scholars,
athletes,
clowns.

we wonder
what purpose
drove the teachers
to spend their time
lecturing to
or shouting at
such confused,
apathetic,
or maybe
even bored
individuals
as we.

what is
high school?
a football game,
a caper,
a dance,
a lab,
an exam?
something
to help us
grow
or something
to be taken
as lightly
as possible?
it might be
some of these things

sports

obviously
it would not be practical to engage in war all the time
for glory's sake.
so man has invented
ways of duplicating
much of the glory
and eliminating
some of the disadvantages
of war.
and it seems
that a sound mind
in a sound body
is not such a bad idea.
here at hhs
the right combination
of people
cheering at
or competing in
a game
or meet
makes sports somehow worthwhile.

The first test of this season's team at the Middleboro Jamboree led to many hopeful predictions of a successful season. A win at Rockland fulfilled many of these predictions, but Natick was the start of a rough season for the Harbormen. The remainder of the season was uneventful, with the exception of the Scituate game. In the last five minutes of play, Hingham leading 14-12, a Scituate half-back caught a pass and then fumbled. The referee blew his whistle, but the Scituate player picked up the ball and continued on to score. Even though Hingham put the game under protest, the officials awarded the victory to Scituate, based on the fact that we completed the game. This and a string of other losses came to a climax on Thanksgiving with a loss to Newton South.

FIRST ROW: S. Murray, J. Kirby, R. Shaw, P. Shute, A. Spear. SECOND ROW: K. Simpson, D. Gordon, J. DeNicola, H. Cole, P. Perrier, Mr. Goldie, Coach.

This year was the first of existence for the cross country team. Because of the limited practice time and the informality that goes with not being a league member, the team had only a mediocre record.

Field hockey, one of the oldest games in existence, requires speed, endurance, and quick thinking. This year the varsity players attended a clinic at Wellesley College and participated in a day's competition with other members of the Field Hockey Association at Newton High School.

cheerleaders

M. Coleman, D. Walker, J. Burns, W. Fairhurst, A. Ford, Captain, E. Lombardo, L. Infusino, M. Dunning, M. Harrington, B. Gustafson. Missing—M. Schuchard.

MRS. PETERS, Advisor

Selected by the faculty and student body, the cheerleaders publicize athletic events and promote school spirit. This year, in addition to leading the Pep Club in cheering at the games and making posters to publicize the sports programs, the cheerleaders held a fall dance, staged rallies, and put on banquets to honor the athletic teams.

Spearheading the band during football season, the majorettes offered their talents in pre-game and half-time shows, performing at all home and away games. The girls also performed at rallies, sponsored "A Night in Red and White" in September, and sold beanies during the fall months.

Kidney, M. Mallon, J. Collins. SIXTH ROW: B. Cappella, D. Cole, B. Hornstra.

The Pep Club's purpose is to arouse spirit at athletic functions, through enthusiasm and attendance at these events. The Pep Club, led by the cheerleaders, makes up the cheering section at games and rallies. Its many activities include poster-making, selling programs and shakers at games, decorating for rallies, and generally promoting school spirit. All these projects make the Pep Club a hidden factor leading to the success of all school sports.

VARSITY

FIRST ROW: M. Cronin, J. Spencer, J. Kirby, W. Baldwin, J. Sheskey, D. Daly. SECOND ROW: G. Driscoll, R. Mitchell, Captain, F. Wendt, W. Garretson, Mr. Barker, Coach.

Not only is it impossible to make this year's Varsity record look impressive, but it is equally impossible to attribute this poor season to anything but a lack of height. Coach Barker, plagued by this height problem, built a small, fast team. However, the team just couldn't cope with its taller, higher scoring rivals. The only bright spots in the team's 2-16 record were two successive wins in non-league play—53-43 over Scituate and 48-39 over Thayer.

Unlike the Varsity, the Junior Varsity enjoyed a winning season, splitting games with Rockland, Scituate, Silver Lake, and Whitman-Hanson and defeating Hanover and Abington twice. Because of the large number of seniors on this year's varsity squad, many of the junior varsity players, most of whom were sophomores, will have an excellent chance of making next year's Varsity.

Hingham's South Shore League Champions completed a nearly perfect season, marred only by a tie with Archbishop Williams, 4-4, and a heart-breaking loss to Catholic Memorial, 3-2. The three teams represented the league in the State Tournament, with Hingham coming from behind twice in the final period to take away victories from South Boston, 3-2, and Lynn English, 3-1, only to lose in the final period of the quarter-final to Melrose, 5-3, after piling up a three goal lead

The Drama Club was organized to provide opportunity for those interested in acting, back-stage work, direction, and theatrical organization by sponsoring plays for their participation and the school's enjoyment. This year the Drama Club presented the three-act play Arms and the Man, by G. B. Shaw, three one-act plays, Gianni Schicchi, Curse You, Jack Dalton, and When You Marry the Navy, and the festival play Thread of Song, presented in Massachusetts State Drama Festival competition in Franklin. The proceeds from these plays go to the American Field Service and toward a scholarship presented for outstanding achievement in dramatics. Members of the club assist in school assemblies during the year and in the annual Christmas program.

THESPIAN TROUPE

FIRST ROW: E. Hanna, E. Broydrick, M. Ferris, E. Parker, E. Alcock, M. Gross, J. Zaro, K. Gustafson, E. Corea, G. Corea. SECOND ROW: P. Swansen, K. Mellgren, R. Lincoln, P. Shute, J. Kirby, R. Jordan, R. Carlson, A. Kimball, D. Rice.

The members of the Thespian Troupe are part of a national organization made up of those who have achieved a high quality of work in dramatics. They receive credits for their performances on or back stage, finally qualifying for membership with twenty credits. Besides having the distinction of belonging to this society, the members comprise the executive council, managing the affairs of the Drama Club.

EDITORS

SEATED: E. Edwards, E. Broydrick, S. Garland, Editor-in-Chief, E. Parker. STANDING: J. Pyne, N. Wright, A. Ford.

The purpose of any newspaper is to keep the public informed. The Harbor Light, published four times this year, strived to fulfill this goal on a smaller scale by keeping the students of this school informed about school activities and by publicizing events of general interest. As in other years, the problems of writing articles, setting up pages, and soliciting advertisements had to be overcome before the publication of each issue. Other duties performed by staff members included photography, art work, and selling the finished newspaper.

A yearbook, exactly as the name implies, is an annual publication. Thus, a yearbook is a tradition and, as a tradition, seemingly has to contain certain "musts" that have to remain whether they are of value or not. Consequently, a yearbook becomes stereotyped. In order to make the 1963 Highway more than a photo album, we have broken some traditions and destroyed some stereotypes. To carry out our goal would have been impossible without the diligent work of the business staff to insure the financial success of the Highway.

C. Leavitt, I. MacGregor, Mr. Flynn, Advisor, L. Perry, W. Lane, K. Gustafson, G. Richardson, C. Wescott, E. Kane.

The purpose of the Debating Club is to stimulate interested students in the art of logical thinking as applied to competitive argumentation. This, in turn, is fortified by the knowledge of undertaking a research problem, a desire for diction with finesse, and a greater fluency of language. The club, debating the subject of reciprocal trade, has successfully met twelve schools comprising the South Shore Debating League and has participated in the State Speech Festival at Holy Cross College in Worcester.

After fall elections, the new members of the Senior Executive Board formulated plans for the coming year. The Christmas Snowball Dance was successfully held on December twenty-second. On the night of March thirteenth the hockey team met the basketball team in a wild game of basketball, after which the male members of the High School faculty, supported by students and female faculty members, battled with the teachers of South Junior High. A paper and bottle drive was held in April. On the Saturday before Easter, the annual car wash was conducted by the senior class in the high school parking lot. Other projects to raise money for graduation and senior week expenses were a spring talent show and an H.H.S. mug selling campaign.

G. Corea, President, B. Gage, Vice-President, S. Cooper, Secretary, R. Harris, Treasurer.

The Junior Class, led by its officers and executive board, had a very ambitious year, sponsoring both profit and non-profit activities. A workday, a dance, and a food sale increased the funds in the class treasury. At the same time the class supported a foster child in Korea, and many members of the class spent time entertaining patients at the Veterans' Hospital in Boston. The class held its biggest activity, the Junior Prom, in the spring.

OFFICERS

G. Emerson, President, R. Swain, Vice-President, V. Quinn, Secretary.

The student council, a body of representatives from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes, promotes leadership and school spirit and encourages high scholastic standards. This year the student council participated in the interschool exchange program with Wellesley High School and was a member of the Southeastern Massachusetts Association of Student Councils. The year's projects included the raising of funds for WGBH, the selling of stationary, the proceeds of which went toward a senior scholarship, the arranging of the annual exchange student telephone calls, and the sponsoring of a dance to add to the funds in the treasury.

teachers
have lived in our world once
and can view it
in some sort
of perspective.
we can only speculate
as to the nature of theirs.
it is unfortunate
that we see high school
only through the eyes
of the student.
but the differences
that separate
the teachers from the taught must exist.
and
there is an invisible barrier between.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS
Dr. John H. Lawson

TO THE GRADUATES:

As you read the pages of the 1963 HIGHWAY and recall many memories of your school years, it is well to remember Joyce Kilmer's famous words, "... life is a highway and its milestones are the years." You may be satisfied with the distance you have covered and with your rate of progress. Perhaps, however, you should pause at this junction to see if you have taken advantage of all the benefits of the main road and the many side roads provided by your parents, teachers, and townspeople. There may be a need for a change in the rate, time, or distance of future travels. Your future and our future is in your hands.

Congratulations and best wishes for continued success.

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT
Charles W. Lamontagne

As you go forward in life to meet new challenges, may your success be measured by the worthiness of the basic principles and foundations which you have gained from your home and your school. Do not dream your experiences—experience your dreams.

Man's frontier is as limitless as his imagination, determination, and initiative. Learning is a lifetime process involving all areas of man's activities. The historic goals of all mankind have been to serve his Maker and to serve his fellow man. Two quotations of Ralph Waldo Emerson seem to be worthy of your consideration:

"The true test of civilization is not the census, nor the size of the cities, nor the crops—no, but the kind of man the country turns out."

"So nigh is the grandeur to our dust
So near is God to man,
When Duty whispers low, Thou must,
The youth replies, I can."

SCHOOL BOARD

President, Ian S. Menzies, Dr. John H. Lawson, Superintendent.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL
J. Preston Barry

I congratulate you as a class.

At this point in your careers you share as a class a common heritage, your high school education. Up to this point you have enjoyed the comparative anonymity and security of being high school students. This security of such a general classification will no longer be yours. Henceforth you will be evaluated as individuals. Your achievements will be open to scrutiny. Your success or failure will be measured. All future success will depend on how well you utilize your education. The challenge to each of you then is obvious—make intelligent use of your education.

it's the end of the beginning—
three years
that seemed endless
disappeared too quickly.
we have learned
from the classroom
what a small measure
of responsibility, adulthood,
burdens and decisions
means.
for some there was a transition from immaturity to awareness.
looking back
upon a way of life,
a way of thinking—
upon friends, good times,
and moments
of depression and elation—
suddenly the realization that despite the sameness,
the pressures,
the pace—
these will be missed
because it was a belonging, a home for a while
and even with its discipline
and disappointments—
the people,
the events, and the decisions
helped to make it
a part of us.

Tremendous parties all the time.

My sister Cecilia and I initiated my uncle into our club—clubbe pasa pessoas maravilhosas.

Family, family, and more family.

Of course, I was an astute scholar at Colegio Santa Doroteia.

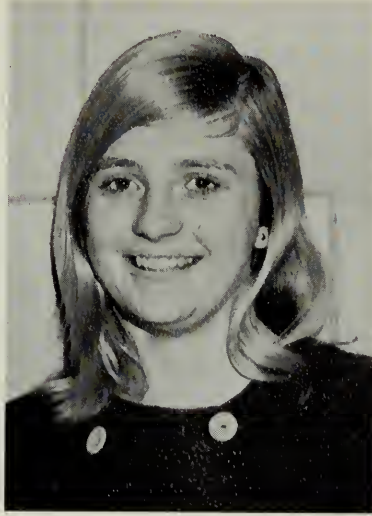

Another startling first—I had never piloted a plane before.

My six months in Sao Paulo, Brazil, were unforgettable. Arriving in time for the Mardi Gras, I was instantly captivated by the excitement, the Latin beat, and the warm-hearted Brazilian people. This carnival was our wildest holiday but many others followed. Just as with parties, there was no end to the eating. A seven course meal was typical and perhaps accounted for my added ten pounds, something my family never missed an opportunity to joke about. This joking seemed a part of the Brazilian personality. I'll never forget my Easter vacation at a camp in the West when we climbed a mountain for four and a half hours, or our international soccer team (I was Miss America), or the day I got completely lost in Sao Paulo. It was a great trip home, climaxed by my plane trip home, when I gained almost thirty hours flying time.

SOTIRIOS YOUROUKOS

GUNNEL TROBECK

RYOHEI ONUKI

Under the sponsorship of the American Field Service, Hingham High School welcomed three foreign exchange students to its halls this year. The three were selected in their home countries and spent most of the school year in this country.

Sotirios Youroukos, better known as "Sot," comes from Corfu, an island in northwestern Greece, where he attended First Boys' High School. His father is a high school principal, and he has one older sister. He lived with the family of Senior Sharon and Sophomore Russell Garland on Main Street.

A native of Stockholm, Sweden, Gunnel Trobeck came to this country from a family of three girls. Her older sister is also in this country this year. When "Gigi" returns to Sweden she will complete her studies toward a degree in Chemical Engineering. She lived with the family of Senior Claudia Allyn on Otis Street.

Coming from a town outside Tokyo, Japan, Ryohei "Yo-Hay" Onuki is the next to the youngest member of a family of seven. He spent the first part of the school year in Fort Dodge, Iowa. He lived with the family of Junior Elizabeth Kane.

Sharon,
I hate
to write in pictures.
Forgive me.
Cherie,

I'm sure we will both remember St. Paul's wonderful sermons, our fun, filled house with
Mr. B. which meant so much to us both.
